

In the Zone Flag Football

Black Panthers (3-0) – As the only undefeated team left they have set themselves up as the team to beat...Not the deepest bunch in the league but all of their players have talent and contribute...They still rely on the deep ball a bit too much to for our taste, but if it ain't broke don't fix it I guess....TK might want to invest in some stick'em as he had a case of the serious dropsy's this week...The defense looked out of sorts in the first half, but pulled it together in the second...if that keeps up though their O might not be able to keep them in games in the future...

Too Damn Grown (2-1) – I think we called this last week...this highly emotional bunch played well from ahead...but got tight as the momentum shifted and dropped an early season big game...and then the emotions spilled over the top...Lets see how they handle their first loss...will they bounce back strong??? We think so, but they play their real nemesis this week in Arsenal...If they drop this one they could be sent reeling...Sam, Peachy and the other ladies really proved their worth this week...time for the fellas to step their game up...Aston...who knew you still had some wheels on you???

Onyx (2-1) – Second week at full strength, second victory. Omar seems to have gone to WR camp in the off-season because he is making HUGE plays out there....or was he just under utilized in the past? Deb is still perhaps the most explosive lady on the field and the defense is settled in. We are still a bit concerned about the overall team speed, but so far it has not come back to bite them in the butt.

Arsenal (2-1) – Pulled out a tight one vs. Dynasty and played more to their strengths...letting the deep ball go and attacking the middle of the field...John showed some real poise under pressure and their new 6'5 addition made his presence felt at the end of the game....They have a HUGE grudge match game this week, can that calm and poise show through again??? It will have to if they plan to win...

Generals (2-1) – Looked pretty good in their first game as a complete unit...their QB play is steady if not spectacular and they have a few playmakers on both sides of the ball...They still look like they need some more practice to get acclimated to each other before they become a real force...and Lee has got to get some stick 'em or crazy glue or something as well on his hands because he is still dropping too many balls to be considered a threat...

Dynasty (1-2) – Maybe we were wrong...maybe the split from Onyx hurt this bunch more than it hurt Onyx? Two losses in a row and we are not sure where they turn to right the ship. Ashley still throws the deep ball with the best of them but if they are not hitting on long routes the offense is tending to bog down...We think the league has seen them so many times they maybe starting to figure them out...might be time to incorporate some trick plays and leave their comfort zone...mixing it up a bit might rejuvenate them and confuse opposing defenses...oh and maybe some decent weather, it has rained on them each week...

Reckless Abandon (1-2) – Lost a tough battle to the Generals but they are making strides each week...they have some speed and a handful of playmakers...but a few people think they are better than they really are and the hot dogging is not helping the team...we also see a lot of generals and not enough soldiers...someone is going to have to step up and really take control of this squad for them to go anywhere...but we think they have the talent to make some serious noise....

Aftermath (1-2) – Picked up their first W in almost two and a half seasons!!! It was because of a forfeit but hey a W is a W...we saw some visible frustration from this bunch last week but if they keep practicing and pull out one or two more W's and sneak in the play-offs, they could be this year's Fat Meat Greasy...once you are in the play-offs who knows what could happen???

Quiet Storm (0-3) – Took another loss but we saw a far better attitude out of this bunch this week. Progress is being made and it is starting to show on the field...They have to get the ladies more involved in the game plan if they want to see success...and they have to play smarter...too many times we saw them throw long on a 3rd and short situation...take what the D gives you and control the clock...probably your best chance at success because the D needs a MAJOR overhaul....As a matter of fact, Lee, TK and Damon may want to go to Costco and buy a drum of stick'em...save some money...

360 (1-2) – What can we say....another no show...the league is clamoring for your contraction...you in or out???

This week's match-ups - Week 4 – May 3rd

10:00 – Quiet Storm vs. 360 – Could be Quiet Storms first victory since the first game of last season.....and probably because of forfeit....Quiet Storm 2 - 360 0 (Forfeit win)

11:00 – TGD vs. Arsenal – We may need to call the national guard in for this game...Not sure there is a bigger rivalry in the league...Arsenal bounced back from a tough loss to Onyx...Can TDG do the same after a heartbreaker to the Panthers??? We predict three ejections and an Arsenal W...Arsenal 22 – TDG 18

12:00 – Aftermath vs. Onyx (Game of the Week) – Onyx is on a nice roll and seem to be getting comfortable with Javan at QB...Aftermath has some athletes but have not pieced it together yet...This spells trouble for Aftermath....Onyx 23 – Aftermath 7

1:00 – Dynasty vs. Reckless Abandon– The loser of this game is almost guaranteed poor seeding in the play-offs (if they make it)...Dynasty has suffered two crushing defeats in a row and desperately need to get back on track...Reckless Abandon is getting it rapidly pulling it together, but not enough to pull out a win here....Dynasty– 35 – Reckless Abandon - 13

2:00 – Black Panthers vs. Generals – The Generals are deep and on a two game winning streak...the Panthers are riding high and rolling...the Panthers will be playing without their top lady offensive threat and their captain...This makes this game a bit closer then it otherwise would be...Black Panthers 28 – The Generals 21
