

In the Zone Flag Football

Black Panthers (6-0::Best bet to win it all) – Got their forfeit victory this week and a little bit of rest...we wonder if the off week and a easy victory the week before will put some rust on their game...they have a tough match-up with Onyx this week so they better come out sharp or they could find themselves down early in the game and with a L afterward...they are without arguably their top three ladies this week so the others will have to step it up big time...Has anyone else ever noticed that Cliff NEVER shuts up??? Can you believe that dude is a teacher??? His poor students...

Onyx (5-1:: Surprise team of the season) – Pulled out a tougher then expected victory this week but they just keep rolling along...they face their toughest test of the season this week against the Black Panthers...if they gut out a win this week they have to be considered favorites to reclaim their title...we are not sure what has been better about this squad, their play on the field or their Mexican hat dance afterward....

Arsenal (5-1:: Always in the mix for the title) – Another week, another win...looks like only the elements can stop Arsenal from blowing up...we are not sure if it was the lopsided score or the dreams of the BBQ they were about to throw on the grill, but they dropped some EASY INT's this last game...if they keep that up going into the play-offs they will make a couple of early round games tougher then they have to be...the question with this bunch is always will the old beer and jokes curse come back and haunt them in the big moments...If we see Ed drink one more bottle of Cisco or Thunderbird we are having a league intervention...you're a grown man ED....step your liquor game up!!! Your slowly killing us....This was a public service message from Ed's liver...

Dynasty (4-2:: Still a threat to take it all) – Their offense is potent but that D is going to have to tighten up...they let Aftermath hang two TD's on them in the first half...and this is a team that by their own admission only scores ONE TD every other game...They can not count on the O to outscore the best teams...as witnessed by their two loses...Ladies, someone in the league take one for the team and give Joaquin some loving...if not, he is going to KILL one of you going across the middle one of these days...

Too Damn Grown (3-3::Tough out every week) – Got a much needed win this week...they seemed to respond well to a little sideline tough love.....Thriller did his best Byron Leftwich impersonation and lead an inspiring second half and last minute drive to secure the W...that was the gutsiest performance we have seen in a LONG time....we will see if this victory propels them to close out the season strong and gets them on a roll headed into the play-offs...we wonder how the hell are they getting that big garbage can grill out to the field every week???? Are they stashing it in Dunbar's driver's ed parking lot during the week???

Generals (2-3:: The team no one wants to see in the first round) – Lost a heartbreaker last week but has shown some true grit the past few weeks...They seem to be missing weapons every week and I am not sure we have seen them with all cylinders firing yet...we still see them as a potential force to be reckoned with.... Lee has taken the criticism of this publication seriously and has stepped his game WAY UP...now if we could work on him not wearing those tights...this is flag football not an off Broadway review of The Lion King....

Reckless Abandon (1-5:: Looked better on paper) – If this bunch does not pull out a W this week they are in serious jeopardy of not making the play-offs...we are not sure what further advice to give them...at this point it is gut check time...it is not talent that is dragging them down but focus and maybe a little bit of heart...lets see if they can muster up more of both the next two weeks....this has got to be the most anti-social bunch in the league as well....come and party on the east side of the field ladies and gents...we don't bite!!!!

Aftermath (1-5::About to split them up and put their players in the expansion draft) – Much better effort this week playing short handed....maybe all those extra folks did not help their cause but hurt it...we would advise just cutting the dead weight and circling the wagons with the 8-10 people that REALLY want to play...they still have a chance of making the play-offs...if they win ONE of their next two games they probably sneak in and that in and of itself would make their season...is it just us or does this team lose 2 teammates a week??? They started out with like 20 and now have like 5.....Losing will do that to you...

Quiet Storm (1-4::Biggest Hearts in the League) – Came out and had a valiant effort this past week....no matter how far down they are on the scoreboard they keep hustling, scrapping and fighting...we are not sure if anyone on the team has ever played organized ball before though...they need an injection of talent and coaching...

This week's match-ups - Week 9 – May 31st

11:00 – Aftermath vs. Quiet Storm (Game of the Week) – Winner of this one probably makes the play-offs....the other probably does not....Can't get any bigger than that...Aftermath 21 - Quiet Storm 7

12:00 – Arsenal vs. Generals – This has trap game written all over it...Arsenal has been rolling along pretty easily...Generals have played two very close games and are probably better than their record indicates...we smell an upset... Generals 22 – Arsenal 21

1:00 – Reckless Abandon vs. TDG– Reckless Abandon is in a similar position as TDG was last week...their back is against the wall and they need a win bad...problem is we are not sure if they know how to pull one out...If Thriller is healthy enough to play TDG should be healthy enough to win... TDG 20 – Reckless Abandon - 13

2:00 – Black Panthers vs. Onyx – These are arguably the two best teams in the league...the winner sets themselves up as the team to beat...the loser shows a chink in the armor....Who will blink first??? Black Panthers – 28 – Onyx - 14

Dynasty forfeit win....